

Personalized Wedding Favors That Will Always Be Remembered

A wedding is a special and memorable event for the bride and groom as well as the guests who are invited to attend the wedding.

The guest list is comprised of much loved family and friends who are an essential part of the wedding day. As a token of your thanks and appreciation for their attendance it is a nice idea to give personalized wedding favors to be treasured and help them remember your special day.

No matter what type of wedding favor you choose to present, you can personalize the gift in a number of ways with some more appropriate for certain favors than others.

As a guest, it is always nice to see your name on the place card as it brings home the fact that you have been thought about and included in this wonderful event. To go one better why not personalize the holder for the place card too with your names and the date of the wedding, giving the guest something to take home and keep. Cards can deteriorate with time but metal place card holders and other materials will last the test of time.

Maybe your place holders are to be in line with your theme such as a springtime wedding, using as a daffodil shaped holder. This will make a beautiful ornament for your guest to use at home and the added touch of the personalized favor gives it all the more value.

Maybe you are having a New York City themed wedding; you could include personalized necklaces for your female guests. Similar to the lucky charm always worn by “Carrie” on the Sex and The City T.V program, what a delightful and unexpected gift.

You could take any favor you fancy and wrap up using a ribbon with the names of your guests, also the couple and the date of the wedding. Or you could tie a little card note with a personalized message to your daintily wrapped candies.

Maybe you a giving scented candles as wedding favors. Tie a bow around your candles containing you personalized message with a silk flower in the centre. Perhaps, your candles are in a box, easy, just place a personalized sticker with names and dates of the wedding.

Tea lights are a popular choice for wedding favors. Why not personalize them by stamping the bottom of the tea light with your message. Or even better, put your personalized message on the base of the candle and when it melts your message will be displayed.

There truly is no end to the ideas to personalize your wedding favors. The more creative, the more impact they will have. Your guests will appreciate this added personal touch.
