

Toys For Your Baby- From Infant To Toddler

All parents know that their babies like to play! Whether they are infants or toddlers, babies just love playing! As babies grow, they want to learn more about the new world they are in by touching, tasting, seeing, hearing, and sensing. At this age, there is no differentiation between learning new things and enjoying themselves. This is where baby toys come into the picture!

Activity gyms tap into a baby's potential for endless fascination by tapping, kicking, squirming and jolting, all in the name of fun! Riding toys also entertain whilst serving to expend their natural energy. Exploring is what babies do best, and this is best done in a safe environment with lots of colorful toys.

Young babies also require play mats which allow them to move along at their own pace on colorful platforms that are safe. All these activities help to develop their minds, and at the same time improve their eye-hand coordination and motor control faculties.

Action figure toys are especially popular with kids, who love enacting scenes and jumping and running around with their much loved superhero. Some of the popular action figure toys include Spiderman with his crime-fighting excitement or Elmo with whom they can learn their ABCs.

When you take your baby outside, occupy her with a toy that will make her more inclined to smile than to be fussy! Whether you're going in a car or a stroller, take along a favorite toy. You'll find your baby being entertained without you having to fuss.

You can even buy a mobile baby mobile, which attaches itself onto the stroller or car seat, and is easily folded up when required. Baby mobiles which are portable normally have toys which can be attached on to the bar: ideal for transport. And at home, the same mobile can be attached in the nursery, directly over the crib!

Musical toys help the baby to develop sound recognition and differentiation, pattern recognition and other mental skills as they laugh along with the music. Babies know when they're having fun, and music is always, always fun!

Building blocks and building sets such as Lego are imperative for babies who are growing older. They can use them to build a medieval tower, a Star Wars Cantina or even a Roman bridge. How exciting! Building blocks range in complexity from large blocks for younger babies to smaller ones as babies grow up.

Electronic baby toys are all the rage today. Babies in today's world start learning about ways to have fun and learn with DVDs, Computer games, computer toys, videos and the like at a very young age!

Learning toys aid children in both learning as well as entertainment! Babies are given toys which continuously fascinate and educate, all at the same time. Here, there is so much choice that any parent will have a hard time picking out the right toys for their babies. Baby toys that teach colors, numbers, letters and shapes are available at most toy stores and are lots of fun for the kids.

Science toys such as dinosaurs, planets, butterflies, magnets and stars are another favorite. You'll be surprised at how fast young children can be when it comes to learning exciting stuff in biology, geography and the like. Science toys also provide lots of continual enjoyment for the young ones.

At the end of the baby's day, a nice warm bath is essential before bedtime. This is where dunk the Ducky and Squirt the Pelican come into the picture. Fun is a never-ending process for babies, as they sail their tiny boats in the tub!

Looking at the assortment of baby toys in any toy store today, you'll wish you were a kid again. Baby toys are just so much fun!
